

Landis Woods Nature Preschool Newsletter

“The earth laughs in flowers.”
-Ralph Waldo Emerson

The weather is getting warmer and lot's of new lessons are popping up at preschool! We have started a major unit on life cycles incorporating many aspects of the natural world. You may have seen the various birds and plants we have been raising over the past few weeks. Our button quail are mature at 8 weeks and can even start laying eggs! We have planted tomatoes, peppers, flowers, and loofah gourds!

We have started rotating learning centers and have enjoyed learning in small groups. Our centers include math, phonics, writing, and sight words. We have enjoyed fishing for sight words and writing our names on magic wipe boards. We are getting very good at beginning and blended sounds and learning counting, money, and place value.

Having Fun

On Friday, we enjoyed a visit from the Lancaster County Dairy Princess Rachel Hollinger! Our royal guest showed us pictures of her family's cattle and taught us about life on a dairy farm. She showed us the different types of foods that go into a cow's Total Mixed Ration (TMR), and then helped us make our own TMR trail mix!
